THANK YOU TO THE GOVERNMENT, TO THE COMPANIES AND TO THEIR EMPLOYEES

Message from Michèle Detaille, President of FEDIL

Following a week marked by containment measures and restrictions against the coronavirus, I would like to thank the government and its teams for their great responsiveness and flexibility in managing this epidemic crisis and in developing support measures for businesses.

In the current context, it is crucial to be able to continue essential activities to maintain the vital interests of the population and the country. This includes all industries contributing to the value chain of these essential activities. Many thanks to all resident and border employees as well as to the companies that continue to operate while respecting the health protection measures of their teams.

Finally, FEDIL continues to play its role as an intermediary between business and government in order to overcome these difficult times together.
